Well; since it is now clear to all persons that the minority party in our country is the Locofoco party, it must follow, according to Mr. Ritchie's experience, that that party is at the present time the most effective ally of Mexico. The Mexicans owe and feel very grateful to Mr. Polk for suffering their most popular military leader to return home and take command of their forces; and they seem seedily make their gratifule comcan very readily make their gratitude com-prehensive enough to include their most "effective ally," the Locofoco party, that party "being in a minority."

reflective ally," the Locotoco party, many party "being in a minority."

The editor of the Washington Union remarks upon the number of Gen. Taylor's letters that have been published. To be sure several of his letters have been published, but there are two of his letters that have not been published. These two letters were written on the eve of the battle of Buens Vista, one of them to the War Department and the other to a near relative and dear personal friend. Much has been said of the letter to the War Department, and many anxious inquires have been made for it all over the country, but the Administration, in disregard of all importunities, has refused to give it to the public. The other letter, that to a relative and friend, we have seen. At the date of it, Gen. Taylor had the greatest doubt as to the result of the dread-tul and most unequal encounter then about seen. At the date of it, Gen. Taylor had the greatest doubt as to the result of the dreadful and most unequal encounter then about to take place; he looked upon the defeat of his army as by no means improbable, and he knew, that, in case of defeat, he himself should remain cold and bloody upon the field; and the letter was intended, in the event of his defeat and his fall, to serve as a vindication of his memory by explaining the server of the se s army as by no means improbable, and a knew, that, in case of defeat, he himself aould remain cold and bloody upon the relative was intended, in the vent of his defeat and his fall, to serve as a vindication of his memory by explaining his reasons for hazarding the fearful encounter.

It was a terrible letter, and, although our troops were not defeated and although offen. Taylor still survives, we carnestly hope that it will one day be given to the public.

The Washington Union wants to know "in what attitude those men appear before the public who have claimed Gen Taylor as Whig and a Henry Clay Whig."

They appear before the public in the attitude of truth-tellers. We have seen a letter from Gen. Taylor to the Hon. W. J. Graves in which he repeatedly declares himself 'a Whig' in so many words, and we have seen letters from him to a friend and relative stating that he prefers Henry Clay to himself and family a hone-tots of the botto enclose them, and time and the prefers the residency, and the Washington Union has admitted the fact of his having declared, that, if he had been in the United States at the last Presidential election, he will alter the prefers here of the propose of the states of the previous of the public of the previous of the

In reply to some remarks of ours, the Morning Courier quotes an article from the Cincinnati Herald which seems intended to show that the Native Americans have the same ground for supporting Gen. Taylor as Native Americans that the Whig. This matter very readily disposed of. If we support to the support of the supporting the support of show that the Native Americans have the same ground for supporting Gen. Taylor as a Native American that the Whigs have for supporting him as a Whig. This matter is very readily disposed of. If we support General Taylor as a Whig, it is because we conversed with him three years ago and found him to be a Whig, and because we have talked with his intimate friends and the members of his family who assure us that he is a Whig, and because we have seen in black and white his own declarations that he is a Whig. And now we seen in black and white his own declarations that he is a Whig. And now we should like to inquire whether the Native Americans pretend that General Taylor, either verbally or in writing, has declared himself a Native American!

every discordant angry passion; pray make yourselt acquainted with it."—Charles Lamb in a letter to Coleridge.

"Its simplicity, its sweetness, its natural grace and happy intermixture of grave strains with the precepts of angling, have rendered this book deservedly popular."—Hallam's Literature of Europe.

"That well known work has an extreme simplicity, and an extreme interest arising out of its very simplicity. In the description of fashing tackle you perceive the plety and humanity of the author's mind. His is the best pestoral in the language, not excepting Pope's or Phillips'."—Hazlitt, in a paper of the Round Table.
